

Google Cloud Certified Practice Test Questions and Answers

1. To replatform is to

- A) Without changing the code, you may move and improve your current workloads and apps to run on newer form factors.
- B) Completely redesigning your entire application from scratch on GCP
- C) Without altering the platform or the apps, lifting and moving your current applications into GCP
- D) Optimizing and optimizing your applications and workloads while running them on GCP cloud-native platforms without having to completely rewrite them

2. Which of the following is not a metric?

- A) Average memory utilization
- B) Average time to rehydrate AMIs
- C) Average CPU utilization
- D) HTTP load balancer requests per second

3. The focus of the least privilege principle is:

- A) Minimizing the amount of privileges that a single user has to the bare minimum needed to perform their job duties
- B) Ensuring that you give users the least amount of privilege possible
- C) Separating the amount of responsibilities that each of your applications has into logical chunks
- D) Ensuring that roles are defined for your company's access model

4. What is the purpose of Cloud SQL Read Replicas?

- A) Provide multi-region writes
- B) Offload read traffic and improve read performance
- C) Replace the primary for writes automatically
- D) Enable real-time sync to BigQuery

Answers: 1-D 2-B 3-A 4-B

For More Google Cloud Certified Questions and Answers FREE, Google Cloud Certified Online Prep Training, Google Cloud Certified Exam, Google Cloud Certified Study Guide, Google Cloud Certified Flashcards, Google Cloud Certified Quizzes visit:

Google Cloud Certified Practice Test