

HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Practice Test Questions and Answers

1. How should sensitive participant data be stored?

- A) In an easily accessible public database
- B) On unencrypted devices that are accessible by anyone
- C) In secure, encrypted storage systems that limit access
- D) In a physical file cabinet that is not locked

2. What is the purpose of informed consent in research?

- A) To guarantee that participants will complete the study
- B) To inform participants of their right to withdraw from the study at any time
- C) To force participants to agree to participate
- D) To collect demographic data about participants

3. What is the primary purpose of confidentiality in research?

- A) To ensure that research results are not published
- B) To protect participants' privacy and prevent unauthorized disclosure of their data
- C) To allow researchers to share data freely with other institutions
- D) To ensure that participant data is used in future research without consent

4. What should be done if a data breach occurs during research?

- A) Inform the affected participants and report the breach to the relevant authorities
- B) Ignore the breach if it doesn't affect the research results
- C) Continue the study as usual and inform participants after completion
- D) Wait until the breach is investigated and decide later

Answers: 1-C 2-B 3-B 4-A

For More HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Questions and Answers FREE, HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Online Prep Training, HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Exam, HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Study Guide, HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Flashcards, HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Quizzes visit:

HSR - Human Subjects Research Certification Practice Test