

PhD Doctor of Philosophy Practice Test Questions and Answers

1. Feelings are ____ in the moral life.

- A) an unerring guide
- B) reason based
- C) essential and inevitable
- D) essential to impartiality

2. According to a moral philosophy, ____.

- A) why people do what they do
- B) why an action is right or wrong
- C) why one moral event caused another
- D) where a moral agent got her values

3. An ad hominem fallacy attacks the arguer's:

- A) Character rather than the argument itself
- B) Conclusion rather than premises
- C) Premises for being false
- D) Logic for being invalid

4. A valid deductive argument is one in which:

- A) If the premises are true, the conclusion must be true
- B) The conclusion is probably true given the premises
- C) The premises provide some support for the conclusion
- D) The argument is accepted by most experts

Answers: 1-C 2-B 3-A 4-A

For More PhD Doctor of Philosophy Questions and Answers FREE, PhD Doctor of Philosophy Online Prep Training,
PhD Doctor of Philosophy Exam, PhD Doctor of Philosophy Study Guide, PhD Doctor of Philosophy Flashcards,
PhD Doctor of Philosophy Quizzes visit:

PhD Doctor of Philosophy Practice Test