Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Practice Test Questions and Answers

1. Which statement about baffles is correct?

A) Baffles divide the tank into separate sections that never share liquid
B) Baffles remove the need to slow down on curves
C) Baffles are what make a tank a smooth bore tank
D) Baffles are bulkheads with holes that slow the movement of the liquid

2. How does a bulkhead differ from a baffle?

A) A bulkhead divides the tank into separate compartments, while a baffle has holes that let liquid pass through
B) A bulkhead has holes to let liquid through, while a baffle seals compartments off completely
C) A bulkhead is found only in smooth bore tanks, while a baffle is found only in compartment tanks
D) A bulkhead is an outer shell, while a baffle is an inner lining

3. Which tank design allows the most liquid surge?

A) A tank divided into compartments by bulkheads
B) A baffled tank
C) A tank that is filled completely
D) A smooth-bore tank with no baffles

4. What is the main purpose of baffles inside a tank?

A) To keep different liquids in separate sections
B) To make the tank easier to clean
C) To slow the liquid's forward-and-back surge
D) To raise the load's center of gravity

Answers: 1-D 2-A 3-D 4-C

For More Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Questions and Answers FREE, Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Online Prep Training,
Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Exam, Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Study Guide, Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Flashcards, Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Quizzes visit:

Tank Vehicle Endorsement Knowledge Test Practice Test

Practice Test Geeks © All Rights Reserved